

A. G. DULMAGE IN NEW FIELD

A. G. Dulmage, with the Arizona Gazette for the past ten years, has severed his connection with that paper to become assistant general manager of McArthur Brothers. Mr. Dulmage as business manager of the Gazette has shown executive ability of a high order.

In his new and different field, he will find great opportunity for the full scope of his ability in one of the most rapidly expanding business establishments in the Southwest.

Mr. Dulmage is a firm believer in the future of the automobile industry. He believes that the short haul work of the nation will be done by motor trucks and that the other type of car will find constantly expanding field in the business life of every community.

McArthur Brothers, maintaining, as they do, branches in Tucson, Nogales, Douglas, Mesa, Glendale and Chandler and sub-agencies throughout the state, offer to the new assistant general manager a wide field of opportunity which his admiring friends firmly believe that he will fill with utmost satisfaction to himself and his new associates.

REGULAR SHOW BY MESA BOYS

Gardner and Bailey has nothing on Mesa high school. When a basketball game or other entertainment is provided for the delectation of the public, there are no long, uninteresting waits in between times for the Mesa high school tumbling team keeps the spectator amused with aerial somersaults, pyramiding building and other stunts which are always well received.

The town is probably the only high school institution of its kind in the state. The boys who make up the tumbling aggregation are 12 in number and are captained by Harold Viant. They are trained to a condition of near perfection and the novelty of the thing always makes a hit with the on-lookers.

A splendid program has been arranged by the stunt-makers for next Friday evening to interest the people here before and after the halves of the Tempe-Mesa basketball game.

Girls of High To Do Chores For War Fund

Phoenix high school girls, members of the Patriotic League, are showing what stuff they are made of in the plans they have made for doing their bit to help the war work fund of the Young Women's Christian Association. The girls are organized in squads with captains to whom they must report and whose orders, detailing them to any special service, must be obeyed. House-keepers of Phoenix are asked to remember the Patriotic League members when desiring any special service and so make it possible for the girls to earn extra money for their Patriotic League pledge.

Calls for girls to do dishwashing, to care for children, for sweeping, dusting, serving at luncheons, running errands, sewing, darning, painting place cards, as well as calls for chauffeurs, tutors, music teachers and girls to read to invalids will be gladly filled. Any one wishing any service of this sort may find prompt and efficient help by telephoning to the high school office. Phoenix League members in their loyal service to the league are earning a high rank and a right to stand shoulder to shoulder with the leagues of any city in the whole United States.

TWO SUFFERERS FRED GARDINER PROHIBITION

Fred Gardiner, manager of the Clover Leaf club took the witness stand in Justice De Souza's court yesterday at the preliminary hearing of Bruno Ramirez and Frank Pablo and told how he had been flummoxed out of $100 for a 10-gallon keg of whiskey which had been found to contain only one pint of the beverage.

His evidence was sufficient to hold Ramirez to answer to the superior court but the case against Pablo was dismissed.

The $100 it developed had been divided. John Skinner, a frequenter of the Clover Leaf, who put over the deal securing $40, $30 going to Ramirez and $25 to Pablo. The remaining $5 not being accounted for, F. C. Struckmeyer for the defense inquired of Gardiner if he had not "flummoxed" the alleged liquor merchants out of that.

The money was introduced in evidence at state's exhibits A, B, and C. This was opposed by Mr. Struckmeyer who claimed that money could not be withdrawn from circulation and on the further ground that it was the private property of the defendants. The motion was overruled.

Gardiner testified that Skinner acting as agent for Ramirez had met him at the Clover Leaf and had told him where he could get a 10-gallon keg of whiskey for $100. He said he drew the amount agreed upon from the Clover Leaf and made an entry in the book charging it to himself. Mr. Struckmeyer then demanded that the book be brought into court and it was discovered to contain no $100 charge against Gardiner.

This testimony of Gardiner's regarding the case he took to keep his private money from becoming mixed up with the funds of the Clover Leaf club to such a degree that the two could not be distinguished by their various colors, was interpreted as voluntary and irrelevant. It was designed no doubt, to anticipate a suspicion that might be entertained that the whiskey was bought by the head of the club and the superintendent of it, for the club, to be served to the patrons of that institution. Neither Gardiner nor Payne bear records as hard drinkers, so that it might easily have been suspected that they were not buying whiskey in such quantities for their own consumption.

According to the testimony of Skinner when he called at the club, two glasses were placed before him and the whiskey he brought with him was compared with the drink offered him by his host. This was strenuously denied by Gardiner who was questioned about his "private stock" by Mr. Struckmeyer who explained that by private stock he did not mean a brand but Gardner's own or the club's whiskey.

Gardiner insisted that only soft drinks were served at the club and that he was such a poor judge of whiskey that he had taken Perry Payne with him to sample the liquor. He told of the big keg and the false compartment containing the solitary pint which was discovered after the purchase had been made. When the flow of whiskey became slow, Gardiner said a nail was driven in the keg from which came a steady stream of water. Indignant that a trick had been played on him, he reported the matter to the authorities.

"If you had found the entire keg contained whisky you would not have squealed," suggested Mr. Struckmeyer. "No," admitted the witness.

Payne testified as to the whisky deal and Constable Haze Burch, the arresting officer gave an account of the com-

SHOE SALE EXTRAORDINARY

Beginning Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock we are going to inaugurate our MID-WINTER SHOE SALE. We have somewhat changed our "policy" in the time of holding our Semi-Annual Shoe Sale, inasmuch as it will give the buying public an opportunity to purchase footwear at cost or less at a time when shoes are in much demand.

We are placing on sale at this time "BROKEN LOTS," both of last year's purchases and also of this season's buys. Where lines and different lots have been sold out to only a few pairs we are placing these on sale at prices which cannot be duplicated, and the styles are not antiquated or old and neither are they shelf-worn; but styles that are very much alive, and such makes as Geo. W. Baker's and Griffin & White of Brooklyn, N. Y., Sherwood's of Rochester, N. Y., Krippendorf-Dittman of Cincinnati, and Selby Shoe Co., of Portsmouth, Ohio. In our men's line you will find numbers from the well known line of E. T. Wright & Co., of Rockland, Mass., our boys' line, THE BOY SCOUTS, and our misses and children's from Mrs. A. R. King Shoe Co.

We wish to state, lest the public will misunderstand, that there will be no reduction on regular lines, but only on lines that are discontinued and broken lots. This sale will last only FOUR DAYS and will end Saturday evening at 10 o'clock. This will be an extraordinary time to purchase footwear at prices which are exceptionally low, when the market is so unsettled and no relief from higher prices is in sight. Remember that this sale is on only for FOUR DAYS and that the early shopper will be one who will benefit by these low prices and will get properly fitted. Watch for the SPECIALS which will be run each day.

plaint lodged by Gardiner and the subsequent arrest.

BENEFIT SHOW IS DELIGHTFUL

Filled to capacity, the Elks theater last evening presented a gay appearance when society people turned out to attend the benefit performance for the Associated Charities. It was, incidentally, the first production by the Ed. Redmond Musical comedy company of "A Thief in the House" and the production was fully in keeping with the importance of the occasion.

It was a long show, made so by cancores for the people, many of whom had not before seen the company, and who were more than delighted with the way the sprightly comedy was given. "A Thief in the House" is undoubtedly up to the best standard set by the Redmond organization. All of the principals were well cast and the singing parts were especially well done. As usual, the dancing numbers were nicely presented, while the piece itself lends readily to the excellent comedy work of Mr. Redmond and his associates.

CHARITIES PICK NEW OFFICIALS

Electing Walter Bennett as president, Dr. Ancil Martin, first vice-president and Mrs. Dwight B. Heard, second vice-president, the Associated Charities at its adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon filled the three places named and left the question of the election of a secretary and a treasurer and the appointment of a superintendent open until the Friday session to be held at 4 o'clock in the Associated Charities headquarters on South Second avenue.

The directors elected, their term to expire in 1920, include the new head of the organization, Bishop Atwood, Mrs. Dwight B. Heard, Mrs. E. B. Parsons, David Goldberg, Dr. Ancil Martin, Allen H. Williams, Harry Friedman, W. B. Twitcheell. Among the directors whose terms have not expired and who will serve with the new board are Mrs. F. C. Struckmeyer, M. T. Phelps, Harry A. Diehl and Dr. Gillespie.

PAYS FINE.—John McDowell was fined $20 by Justice De Souza yesterday, when he pleaded guilty of speeding on Central avenue.

WILL SERVE TIME.—F. Merels pleaded guilty to the charge of disturbing the peace and was fined $20 or as many days by Justice De Souza yesterday. He will serve time in the county jail.

EXPENSIVE WEAPON.—For carrying concealed weapons, Nestor Gomez was given a 10 days' sentence and fined $20 or as many days by Justice De Souza yesterday.

The regular monthly meeting of Camp No. 1, United Spanish War Veterans, will be held tonight at the Elks lodge room. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected. All comrades are cordially invited to attend.

Local Produce Market

A carload of mixed fruit and vegetables was received by the John P. Barker company today. Included was a large shipment of very fine rhubarb, and also one of cauliflower. Bell peppers are making a very fine showing on the market. They are of good size and of unusually fine quality. Another shipment of New Jersey cranberries was received yesterday. The price is still high and prospects to go still higher. Early frosts have caused a shortage in the eastern crop. Dealers are paying the following
